Henry Goldbourne

Particularly interested in current transport technologies and innovations in helping achieve decarbonisation.

Henry is a Graduate Transport Planner and recent Human Geography graduate with an upper 2:1 honours degree from Sheffield Hallam University. His interest and enthusiasm for transport planning arose whilst studying various modules such as sustainable regeneration, development and sustainability and transport planning at university and the subsequent reports that I wrote. Having recently returned from spending the previous few months travelling, he is keen to utilise my skillset and interests and add value to mode's project portfolio.

Outside of work, Henry is into sports and travelling, particularly football golf and rugby. He also enjoys spending time with colleagues outside working hours.
